Cambridge,
79 Oxford Street.
Dec. 26. 1863

Mr. Garrison,

Dr. Sir,

I am both proud and happy this morning in being permitted to address you a note. My husband tells me you will call upon me here at my house next Monday or Tuesday. I shall await you with extreme pleasure. From childhood I was taught to reverence you, and was fed on the principles you advocated, by a father who carried "The Liberator" in his pocket, when to carry it, exposed him to insolence, contempt, and loss of business. I hope to see you for your own sake, and also for the sake of humanity, suffering in another cause.

Yours Respt'ly,

Mrs. M. E. Berry.

Wm Lloyd Garrison.